In Re: Interconnection Agreement between New) England Telephone and Telegraph Company d/b/a) Bell Atlantic-Vermont and Nynex Mobile Limited) Partnership and Vermont RSA Limited Partnership)
d/b/a Bell Atlantic Mobile

Order entered: 7/31/2000

BACKGROUND

On May 31, 2000, Nynex Mobile Limited Partnership and Vermont RSA Limited Partnership d/b/a Bell Atlantic Mobile ("BAM") and New England Telephone & Telegraph Company d/b/a Bell Atlantic-Vermont ("Bell Atlantic") requested that, pursuant to Section 252(e) of the Telecommunications Act of 1996 (the "Act"), the Public Service Board ("Board") approve an Interconnection Agreement between them dated January 20, 2000.

A prehearing conference took place on June 20, 2000. At that time, the parties agreed to a procedure by which the Hearing Officer would make recommendations based upon the Interconnection Agreement and any other written filings.[1] Any parties wishing to submit further information could comment upon the Hearing Officer's Proposal for Decision.

Victor D. Del Vecchio, Esq., and Gregory M. Kennan, Esq., on behalf of Bell Atlantic, filed Motions to waive Board Rule 2.201(C). Those Motions are granted.

DISCUSSION

The Board's review of the Interconnection Agreement is governed by the federal law that authorizes such agreements. Under Subsection 252(a) of the Act, any interconnection agreement negotiated under Section 252(a) must be submitted to the State commission for review under Section 252(e).[2] The State commission has the authority to "approve or reject the agreement, with written findings as to any deficiencies." The Board may not reject the proposed Interconnection Agreement in whole or in part unless it finds that the agreement or any material portion thereof discriminates against a non-party carrier or is inconsistent with the public interest. The Board may also establish and enforce other requirements of State law in its review of the agreement under Section 252(e)(3). The Board must act to approve or reject the agreement within 90 days of its submission, or the agreement is deemed approved.[3] The parties have agreed that the 90-day review period mandated by that section ends on August 29, 2000.

The Interconnection Agreement negotiated by Bell Atlantic and BAM sets out the terms and conditions under which the parties will interconnect their networks and thereby permit the origination and termination of calls on each other's networks.[4] The Agreement is intended to "describe and enable specific Interconnection and arrangements between the parties for the exchange" of Commercial Mobile Radio Service ("CMRS") traffic. It does not apply to other traffic.[5] The agreement specifies both the form of the interconnection[6] and the compensation arrangements that will apply.[7] The initial term of the Agreement ends January 20, 2002, although the Agreement then continues in effect unless terminated by either party.[8]

The Interconnection Agreement is the result of arms-length negotiations between two telecommunications carriers. The Board's focus, as the Act provides, is therefore limited to the issues set forth in Section 252(e)(2)(A): whether the Agreement (or portions thereof) discriminates against a telecommunications carrier not a party to the Agreement, and whether the Agreement is consistent with the public interest, convenience, and necessity. As the Board concluded in its review of the interconnection agreement between Bell Atlantic and Hyperion Telecommunications of Vermont, Inc., in making its determination, the Board must focus upon the potential effect of the Agreement on the evolution of competition in this state and whether the Agreement raises the risk of harm to consumers (and thus is not consistent with the public interest). Docket 5905, Order of 11/4/96 at 12.

The competition enabled by this and other interconnection agreements will likely benefit Vermont consumers and is consistent with the State's telecommunications goals as set out in 30 V.S.A. § 202c and the Telecommunications Plan adopted under Section 202d. At the same time, the Agreement does not contain terms that will harm consumers or competitors. It thus promotes the public interest.

The Agreement also does not discriminate against telecommunications carriers who are not a party to it. Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. § 252(i), other companies seeking to interconnect may adopt the same terms and conditions.

CONCLUSION

The Bell Atlantic-BAM Interconnection Agreement meets the requirements of Section 252(e) of the Act. It does not discriminate against other carriers and is consistent with the public interest, convenience, and necessity. Accordingly, I recommend that the Board approve the Agreement.

The foregoing is hereby reported to the Public Service Board in accordance with the provisions of 30 V.S.A. § 8.

The Proposal for Decision has been served on all parties to this proceeding in accordance with 3 V.S.A. § 811.
